MOSCOW HEARS OF SOVIET SUCCESSES

Number Of Towns And Villages Recaptured In Leningrad Area Is Reported

(BULLETIN)

MOSCOW, Sept. 30.—Fresh Soviet successes on the Leningrad front where German troops were chased out of a number of nearby towns and villages, were reported in Russian advices to Moscow today.

A telephone report to Moscow from Leningrad said defenders of Russia's second city forced the enemy out of a number of surrounding towns yesterday and Sunday and that they were still "maintaining the initiative" today.

Soviet troops were declared to have recaptured a town on the outskirts of Leningrad and then to have crossed a river, "annihilating a German regiment" and forcing the enemy to withdraw a considerable distance.

Full U. S. Support

The news from Leningrad followed a pledge of the "fullest possible support" to Russia from the United States.

W. Averell Harriman, chief of the American delegation to the Moscow supply conference, made the pledge in a speech at the opening session of the parley.

In an address which was translated into Russian by former Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov, Harriman declared his mission to (Continued On Page Six)

PA NEW OBSERVES

October makes its 1941 debut tomorrow—likewise a host of new federal taxes.

This is the final week for registration of voters who desire to be eligible to vote at the November election.

Quite a number of birds gathered in the trees on the Diamond Monday evening, and kept up a busy chatter, maybe this is their fall convention.

Wonder where was the man going, who had a couple of pair of skis strapped on top of his car, travelling west, Monday afternoon. Gave us somewhat of a cold feeling.

To Pa New, William Humphrey, 328 Boyles avenue, writes: "We are still picking strawberries off our plants, and those who haven't seen them can hardly believe it. We picked a pint Monday morning."

Smoke was issuing from most of the chimneys in New Castle this morning, as heating systems were fired up. Weather conditions during the night approached real fall, the temperature dropping down to around 40 degrees.

Disorders Serious In Nazi-Held Lands

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Advices reaching the state department from diplomatic and other channels today indicate that disorders in the German conquered territories of Europe are rapidly assuming serious proportions. The advices indicate that Serbia is in open revolt against Italo-German rule, and that the disorders in Norway and Czechoslovakia have approached a virtual state of revolt. Acts of sabotage against the German war machine also are reported to be increasing steadily throughout the occupied regions of France, while passive resistance to German rule is developing rapidly in Belgium and Holland. ### Chest Goal $65,000 For Year's Campaign

Quota for New Castle's annual Community Chest Campaign, which will open next Monday, will be $65,000, according to an announcement today by Marshall G. Matheny, president of the Chest Board.

This represents an increase of $5,000 over the goal of last year's drive, and $8,567 more than was actually raised last year. Increased operating costs by the welfare agencies were cited by Mr. Matheny as making imperative an increase in the amount which New Castle citizens are asked to give.

The goal was determined after exhaustive analysis by the budget committee, made up of Sydney B. Cleal, chairman, O. E. Flora, and David H. Long. The committee met with representatives of each agency and made a thorough study of the operating records of each. Allocation of the funds raised will be made on the basis of the committee's study.

Rome Claims Big Victory

Asserts British Vessels Sunk In Encounter In Mediterranean

BATTLE RAGED FOR HOURS SATURDAY

(International News Service)
ROME, Sept. 30.—Claiming its greatest victory so far over Britain's Mediterranean fleet, the Italian government asserted today that three British cruisers have been "certainly sunk" and nine other war vessels heavily damaged by Italian torpedo planes.

In what was called a "wonderful struggle" between waves of Fascist planes and a huge British convoy, four escorted supply ships were sunk, two by planes and two by Italian naval units, according to a special communique.

One battleship and possibly an aircraft carrier were declared to have been hit by aerial torpedoes in the battle that raged for nine hours Saturday.

Claim Cruisers Sunk
Of the three British cruisers claimed to have been sunk, two were described as "heavy," 10,000-ton vessels and the third was termed a "light" cruiser.

The battleship was hit in the bow by a torpedo, the communique said, and another "big unit" also was "more or less heavily hit."

Lexington, Ky., Police Seek Trace Of Two Escaped Convicts From Georgia

DESPERADOES ARE POSSIBLE SUSPECTS

(International News Service)
LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 30.—Two escaped convicts from a Georgia prison were hunted in Kentucky today as possible suspects in the Sunday morning slaying of 27-year-old Marion Miley, prominent golf star, and the critical wounding of her mother, Mrs. Fred Miley, 50.

The names of the Georgia desperadoes—one a robber and the other a convicted murderer—were injected into the case when Lexington authorities received a bulletin from police at Tampa, Fla., to be on the lookout for Forrest Turner, 24, and Slim Scarborough, 41, wanted in connection with two Tampa holdups.

Turner and Scarborough fled last month from the Georgia state prison camp at Dallas, Ga., known as "Georgia's little Alcatraz." Turner was serving a long term for robbery, while Scarborough was serving a sentence for murder.

Auto Recently Stolen
According to Tampa police, the two men recently stole an automobile in Georgia answering the description of the car believed to have been used by the robbers who shot Miss Miley and her mother. (Continued On Page Two)

LONDON, Sept. 30.—British authorities admitted today that the battleship Nelson had been hit by an aerial torpedo in a running sea battle with Italian aircraft Saturday.

All reports that the Nelson had been sunk, however, were flatly denied.

It was stated the 35,350-ton Nelson, which was completed in 1925, was hit by a torpedo from the air during the Mediterranean convoy battle. The battleship's speed was slightly reduced by the hit, but she suffered no casualties, authorities said. A previous British announcement

N. Y. A. Center Graduates 24

First Class Completes Training At Job Experience Center

CEREMONY HELD MONDAY NIGHT

Twenty-four young men, trained for employment in defense industries, were graduated Monday night when the National Youth Administration, Job Experience Center in Cunningham Park held its first commencement exercises.

Of the twenty-four, six are already working at the Neville Island propeller plant of the Curtis-Wright Company, 12 more expect their calls hourly and the other six will undoubtedly be placed within a short time.

The commencement was a combination dinner program, with George Keats, supervisor of the local center in charge as general chairman and J. C. Pella, area supervisor, acting as toastmaster. In addition to the 145 young men now at the center, there were about 60 guests. Among them were representatives of government and industry, and relatives of the young men.

In Mess Hall
The dinner was held in the mess hall with a staff of center residents acting as waiters and Miss Susan Keaphart, camp dietitian, in charge. It was a meal calculated to support a chap about to do a day's work in a hayfield. It was well cooked and served in ample proportions.

Following the dinner the supervisor, George Keats, spoke briefly upon the work of the center, the necessity of training workers for defense industries and the success achieved thus far in the local center. He called upon several of the boys to speak, among them Bruno Troppia, Eugene Pace, George Douglas, Harry Thomas and George Burgoon. F. P. Simpson, instructor in machine shop practice, spoke briefly.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—President Roosevelt returned to Washington today to get an up-to-the-minute estimate from Secretary of State Hull on all phases of the delicate international situation, preliminary to letting congressional leaders know tomorrow just how drastically he wants the neutrality act revised.

Plans are taking definite shape to rush every possible ounce of war material to the aid of Soviet Russia in her desperate stand against the consolidated pressure of Hitler's Nazi armies. Hull was prepared to advise the president on progress of negotiations now in progress in Moscow between Soviet Premier Josef Stalin and the Russian high command and the special U. S.-British mission, headed by W. Averell Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook.

So Declares Prime Minister Churchill In Warning To Britain

STRESSES NEED OF AID TO RUSSIANS

Attacks In North Africa And Against England Are Not Unlikely

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 30.—A warning that Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler may soon expand Nazi warfare into a three-barreled drive against Russia, North Africa and England itself was delivered by Prime Minister Winston Churchill today.

Germany may even go through this far peaceful Spain to reach North Africa, the prime minister said.

In an exhaustive war review to the House of Commons, Churchill emphasized the need for continued and growing British and American aid to Russia but at the same time stressed the difficulties of transportation.

Gives Encouragement
He encouraged his hearers, however, in these words:

1. The British Royal Air Force stands ready to bomb even Rome heavily "whenever convenient and possible."

2. Britain's army, now supported by a home guard of 2,000,000 men, is equally prepared "to hurt any invader into the sea."

3. Britain "no longer stands alone" for both the United States and Soviet Russia are acting in concert with her "against the crimes of the enemy."

Finns Report Reds Repulsed

HELSINKI, Sept. 30.—Finnish military authorities announced today that Finnish forces have completely destroyed three Russian regiments near Petroskovi, killing and wounding about 1,500 Russian soldiers and taking thousands of prisoners.

Authorities declared only part of the enemy troops succeeded in escaping into the surrounding woods and swamps.

Official government statistics said that on an average 70 per cent of all buildings in the recaptured Karelian isthmus were completely ruined in accordance with the Soviet "scorched earth" policy.

The destruction was greatest in the village of Metsapirtti where 99 per cent of the buildings were destroyed. At Kakisalmi 95 per cent of the buildings were wrecked, at Viipuri (Viborg) 93 per cent.

Here's a bow to Miss September, a really lovely lass, she brought us glorious days of fall, and let the summer pass without much fuss of rain or wind, her stay was pure delight, bright days with wine like air above, and cool to sleep at night. But Miss September leaves us now, October charges in, and on his face I think I see a most suggestive grin. A grin that contemplates some fuss, perhaps a little snow, a grin of mischief I would say, and things I do not know. So au revoir September, we liked your winsome way, and hope to see you back next year, its seventy-one to day.

Skilled Labor Is Scarce In State

But Large Army Is Seeking Jobs

Analysis Of Situation Is Made—Reason For Many Jobless

SURVEY RESULTS ARE MADE PUBLIC

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—Pennsylvania finds itself today paradoxically experiencing a shortage of labor while 220,000 people seek employment.

Hastily organized vocational training schools are busy turning out men for jobs in defense industries, but for scores of thousands of other men the prosperity which has come with the war and the national defense program means only one thing: higher living costs and no jobs.

There are jobs to be had, thousands of them, but for many of the 220,000 persons who seek work they are not available, a survey by state relief statisticians disclosed.

Reasons For Situation

According to employment experts, here are the reasons why it is necessary to train new workers and even import them from outside the state while several hundred thousand men and women are unemployed:

First, the majority of those without work are unskilled.

Second, more than half are middle-aged or older for whom life does not begin at 40.

Third, many are aliens whom defense industries are averse to employing.

Fourth, still others are Negroes, against whom defense industries allegedly discriminate. They constitute a large proportion of the unemployed in Philadelphia, Delaware, Chester and Allegheny counties.

Fifth, some are women, notably in Philadelphia and Allegheny counties, with little if any experience.

Sixth, a certain number of unemployed are physically or mentally handicapped.

Seventh, many unemployed live in areas where no defense industries are located.

State relief statisticians estimated that of the 220,000 estimated persons now unemployed in Pennsylvania, approximately 120,000 are on relief. Of these, 70,000 to 80,000 are to be found in WPA families and the remainder in families receiving direct relief from the state. The rest are on "their own."

WPA officials said the average age of those employed by them is "above 40". The department of public assistance estimated that the majority of its employables were "middle-aged and beyond."

of most of the institutions next year. All have operated on the most economical basis possible, but have steadily increased their service to the community. The Budget Committee has determined that if this service is to continue, increased funds must be made available.

In reporting to President Matheny, Mr. Cleal, chairman of the committee stated, "Your committee has endeavored to make a fair and impartial study of all the agencies' costs and revenues accruing from other sources. We based our judgment on the well-established fact that all of the agencies are carrying on an effective, worth while service to the community. The increased amount asked for is due to present and anticipated increases in the operating costs of the agencies. New Castle cannot afford to lose the services of any of these agencies by failing to raise this amount."

THREE-BARRELED NAZI DRIVE MAY BE HITLER'S PLAN

United States Navy has drastically reduced British shipping losses, Churchill said, Britain cannot afford for a moment to be supine or over-confident.

It is within Hitler's power, the prime minister frankly said, to rest securely on the defensive in the east, while at the same time opening his heavy guns against Egypt and unleashing his invading army against the British Isles.

Serious Nazi Shortage

So far as the House was concerned, the most cheering statement made by Churchill was his assertion that Germany is facing a serious shortage in the air.

"That is a very serious shortage," Churchill said, "but for the rest he still retains the initiative. He has the divisions, the weapons and ample means of transportation in Europe."

In the ensuing debate, Laborite Frederick Lees-Smith warned that Hitler must be prevented from "digging in."

"Otherwise," he said, "the war will be stalemated and in effect a victory for Germany with control of the continent."

At the moment, Churchill insisted, the most important factor is aid to Russia.

He warned, however, that transportation may prove to be the limiting factor in extension of British and American aid to Russia. In this connection, the spokesman said that Germany could hold a defensive position in the east while still carrying out an offensive in North Africa and attempting an invasion of Britain.

Ship Losses Lower

(Editor's Note: A German announcement said 662,000 tons of British merchant shipping was sunk during the month of September.)

British authorities declared losses of British, allied and neutral merchant vessels during the months of July, August and September were only one-third the losses suffered in April, May and June.

In contrast, Churchill claimed, enemy losses for the July-September quarter were approximately one and a half times greater than for the previous quarter.

Only a very few British munitions ships have been lost, the prime minister said.

As a net result of the improvement, they added, British food reserves are now far higher than they were a year ago.

"There will be better Christmas dinners this year," Churchill declared.

German Leaders Silent

It was contended, that German leaders have fallen "very silent for seven months" and that Chancellor Hitler has said nothing regarding his war plans.

British counter-measures against U-boats and long-range German aircraft were declared to have proved "very successful."

Britain, authorities stated, is now within measurable distance of the immense flow of new merchant ships being built by America. Authorities said they anticipate these ships plus new British production will carry Britain through 1942 and "along progressively to the end of the war."

Nevertheless, Churchill warned that premature rejoicings "over these considerable facts must be deprecated."

They said Britain must expect Nazi U-boat warfare to be conducted on a larger number of U-boats than ever before and to be intensified.

by paying a tax on each ticket. Never before have high school football fans paid any taxes—but times are changing and the lovers of the popular Friday night and Saturday afternoon pastime will have to dig a little bit deeper in the "jeans."

Work has been started on a city paving project, which will bring joy to a great many motorists and pedestrians, the repaving of the intersection at Mercer and North streets. For some unaccountable reason, the street had sunk down and was full of bumps. Anyone who did not know of the situation, received a terrible shaking up when they went over the spot at a speed of more than ten miles an hour. The repaving is being done in sections, a quarter of the area being taken up and replaced at a time.

One of Pa New's boys was a very much disappointed man this morning. Feeling the chill in the air late yesterday afternoon, and noticing that the sky was perfectly clear, he went out and picked all his flowers. Preston Flaherty of the Johnson Bronze Company, Raymond Lathwa of the state employment service, A. J. Levine of the Washington, D. C. office, John Kinkella of the Curtis-Wright Company who is located in the center as an instructor in atomic hydrogen welding.

Center Enlarging

During the program it was stated that the center has 145 young men at the present time but many more boys will be coming in shortly. To care for the additions, the bunks are being double decked, and the foundation for a new shop has been laid.

The classes in welding are taught the latest development in welding, atomic hydrogen method which is faster than the arc welding method. Airplane manufacturers are using the atomic hydrogen method and the six young men already working at the Neville Island plant use this system, as do the others turned out. The picture accompanying this article shows a youth engaged in welding work in the N.Y.A.

In the machine shop the boys are trained in the use of various types of lathes while the new shop will be utilized as a training center in the fabrication of steel and sheet metal.

At the present time the shops of the center are on a 16-hour basis, two shifts of eight hours each. With the arrival of new instructors the center will go on a twenty-four shift schedule, operating three shifts of eight hours each.

SEEK SUSPECTS IN GIRL MURDER

The two women were asleep in adjoining bedrooms in their apartment at exclusive Lexington Country club when the robbers forced entry. The men fled with $145, receipts from the club's regular Saturday night dance.

Lexington police declined to state whether Turner and Scarborough were definite suspects in the Miley case, but Detective Captain Joe Harrigan admitted everything was being done to "follow up Tampa's lead."

Turner and Scarborough, Tampa police stated, were armed with a revolver and a rifle when last reported, and were headed northward from Florida in the stolen machine, a green Buick coach.

Other Holdups

The desperadoes, in addition to the Tampa robberies, also were sought in connection with holdups at Atlanta, Ga., and in Tennessee, authorities said.

Generally, the convicts were said to answer the vague description of the killers given by Mrs. Miley, who was in serious condition in a hospital. Mrs. Miley described one of men as tall and slender, and the other as of medium build. Turner, police records showed, is 5 feet, 11½ inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. Scarborough stands 5 feet, 9 inches, and weighs 146 pounds. Kentucky's entire citizenry was enlisted by Gov. Keen Johnson into the search for Miss Miley's slayers. In a proclamation, the governor declared the "ruthless, dastardly crime is a challenge to law enforcement in Kentucky," and he urged all citizens to volunteer any information which might lead to apprehension of the men.

Fred Miley, father of the slain girl, arrived in Lexington yesterday from Cincinnati, O., where he is a golf professional.

war goods to Russia through Japanese waters into the port of Vladivostok. Joseph Grew, U. S. ambassador to Tokyo, had held highly important conferences with Japanese Foreign Minister Toyoda over the week-end.

From London, it was believed Hull also had available a comprehensive report from Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's special envoy to the Vatican, on his recent conversations with Pope Pius XII, in the course of which he presented a special message from president.

Taylor, since his unexpected arrival in the British capital, has been in consultation with John Winant, U. S. ambassador to the court of St. James; Anthony Drexel Biddle, Jr., U. S. minister to the allied governments in exile, and David Gray, U. S. minister to Eire. Gray had been especially summoned to London for the conference.

To Get Final Word

Tomorrow, Vice President Wallace and Speaker Rayburn have been requested to lead Democratic congressional leaders to the White House for final word from the president on the desired extent of neutrality act revision.

Although Senator McKellar (D, Tennessee), has a resolution pending to repeal the neutrality law outright, best advance information was that the administration desired to retain certain features.

Authority to arm American merchantmen and send them into now restricted combat zones in Russia appeared to be the administration's immediate goal. Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Connally, Texas, already has informed the upper house he is prepared to sponsor such legislation. Informal polls indicate that the administration has ample votes—although non-interventists may delay action in the senate where debate is unlimited.

For his own part, President Roosevelt, as late as last Saturday when 14 new merchant vessels slipped down the ways in an impressive series of dawn-to-dusk launchings, renewed his pledge that the American merchant marine would play the seven seas under every possible protection from Nazi torpedoes, bombs and shells.

Returning to the capital with the chief executive this morning were his week-end house guests at Hyde Park, Crown Princess Martha of Norway; her three children, Princesses Ragnhild, Astrid and Prince Harald; Mme. Ostgaard, lady-in-waiting to Court Chamberlain Wedel Jarlsberg. The royal Norwegian refugees plan to reopen for the winter their suburban estate, "Pook's Hill" at Bethesda, Md.

President Roosevelt will speak briefly over the radio Friday night in connection with the national mobilization for human needs, which annually launches nationwide Community Chest drives. The president will talk not more than five minutes after introduction by Tom M. Smith, St. Louis banker, who heads up the mobilization, and Wendell Wilkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, will be the other featured speaker.

Under present plans, the president will remain in Washington only a few days, then return to his Hudson valley home at Hyde Park.

Hull In Conference

Washington, Sept. 30.—Following an early morning conference with the secretaries of war and navy and chiefs of the armed forces, Secretary of State Cordell Hull today conferred with President Roosevelt. Modification of the neutrality act to permit the arming of American merchant ships and entry of these vessels into combat zones, as well as a review of the general international situation, was the chief topic of discussion at the White House conference.

Prior to the White House meeting, Secretary Hull, Secretary of War Stimson, Secretary of Navy Knox, Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, conferred with Hull at the state department.

In addition to discussing administration plans for revision of the neutrality act, Hull received from the other cabinet members and the chiefs of the armed forces the latest developments in their respective fields. He brought this information to the president.

IF YOU NEED $100 HERE'S WHAT TO DO

How to borrow cash quickly and simply and repay in monthly installments which fit your own income

CAN YOU make good use of $100?

Investigate our loan plans today. Household Finance offers three simple ways for you to borrow up to $300. Your loan will be made the way which best suits your own situation.

1. Signature loans. No security needed. These loans are made, under proper conditions, to both single persons and married couples.

2. Auto loans. A loan on your car may best fit your needs.

3. Furniture loans. Here character and regular income are far more important than the value of your security. Many borrowers use this plan.

No endorsers needed
Whichever way you borrow, it is not necessary to ask friends or fellow-workers to act as endorsers. And at no time do we question friends or relatives about your money affairs. You get the loan you need simply, privately and speedily.

You may repay your loan in convenient monthly installments as shown in the table. Monthly installments of $9.75 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. Or as little as $6.97 a month for eighteen months will also repay $100.

Borrow for less
Payments in the table include charges at Household's rate of 2 1/2% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. The Small Loan Law permits us to charge substantially more than this. Some finance companies do charge a higher rate. It's good business to compare rates before you borrow.

If you need money, here's what to do. Come to Household. Or write to us and say you need a loan. We're here to serve you. Phone or visit us today without obligation.

PEOPLE MUST DEMAND ECONOMY

THERE has been a great deal of conversation in the country among the economic experts and much editorial discussion on the subject of economy. We have been told repeatedly that if we do not economize we are headed for inflation. Even administration leaders, who tried to bring about a moderate dose of inflation in the past are now warning us that we may be confronted by the uncontrolled article. One of the most outstanding advocates of economy in our Congress is Senator Byrd, of Virginia. He has insisted time and again that our non-defense expenditures ought to be cut down. And he has been backed up by numerous statesmen in both houses of Congress. Even Mr. Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury, has insisted on economy in non-defense expenditures, although unfortunately he has presented no concrete suggestions as to where the pruning knife should be applied.

In view of all this, congress is not economy-minded and nothing has been done about it. This naturally leads to an important question: do the people of America really want economy? Congressmen, especially members of the House of Representatives, are quick to sense public opinion. The fact there is no concerted and effective demand for economy in our national house except from the minority indicates that the people themselves have not been aroused to the necessity of economy.

We are living in a fool's paradise. Our government has spent billion after billion so glibly that the people have become shock proof. They have somehow become imbued with the idea that Uncle Sam's going into debt does not mean their going into debt. Some day there will be a reckoning. Already our income tax lists are becoming broadened. Unfortunately, however, even under the new tax bill only a comparatively small minority of our people will pay income taxes. The majority is still off the list. And it is unable to see that it is paying through the nose in the way of concealed taxes.

Until the people themselves demand economy in government there will be no economy. And that day has not arrived. If you don't believe us, just study the tentative budget for expenditures next year.

NO VICTORY IN GUERRILLA WARFARE

When the "V for Victory" campaign got on its way many thought well of it. It is good to build up morale. The device was regarded as better still to stir up the hopes and hatreds of enslaved millions in Europe against their Nazi oppressors.

That seething threat is there. It is bound to be—from the frigid hills of Norway even to the warm mountains of Sicily, for no consideration of these menacing forces with which Hitler has to deal should exclude the bitterly disillusioned Italians.

It is like the culm fires that used to smoulder for years in our own Pennsylvania coal regions, glowing up into fires at night. In occupied Europe now the flames of resistance shoot up, flicker a little and are temporarily quenched in blood.

Within a few days one of Heinrich Himmler's more ruthless aides has displaced von Neurath as "Protector" of Bohemia and Moravia and has declared a state of civil emergency. The Czechs have boiled up again. The firing squads are busy—in France, Belgium, Norway. A few days ago a Vichy-inspired murder court in Paris tried, condemned and executed three alleged "Communists" to show the Nazis how tough they could be.

But in the main Hitler and his grim circle of killers attend only too well to their own massacres of innocent hostages and the reprisals never cease. Admittedly the Sixth Column of downtrodden peoples continue to be a vast threat to Der Fuehrer, often rising to the scale of guerrilla warfare.

But there is cool sense in the current comment of Major George Fielding Elliot that this will not win the war; will not go far toward winning it; that any collapse of the armed forces fighting Hitler would see it all fade down into unexampled misery.

The blackout of European liberty must be lifted by victory—in the field, against Hitler's armies. It may take only a few real setbacks against him to do the job; to bring the sullen purposes of enslaved millions into violent action. Without them their activities are pin-pricks at best. Victory for a free world does not lie that way.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

LEADERSHIP

"The Army has never been concerned about their (the soldiers') morale; we have more important problems to consider."

Those are the words of Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, chief of staff of General Headquarters, discussing current maneuvers of the Second Army versus the Third Army in Louisiana.

General McNair speaks in terms of combat service—the maneuvers are a more than reasonable facsimile—and not in terms of service at permanent training camps where the Army has taken a great concern for the morale of its men. As witness service clubs, post exchanges, theaters, dances and the like.

General McNair's "more important problems" are the problems of command—development of the efficient and elimination of the inefficient among those who one day might lead troops into action. The problems, as a series of maneuvers has shown, must be dealt with forcefully and objectively, otherwise the Army, whatever its morale, cannot function effectively.

Too often the Army is accused of being backward, of harboring commanders and other officers who, collectively, are a millstone to military progress.

But more often than not, the real fault lies with politicians and even with some civilians who interfere with War Department processes of personal elimination.

McNair says troops in the line show "devotion, spirit and put-outiveness" despite the rigors of all-out war games. They deserve efficient leadership.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph.D.

PARENT AND CHILD'S HOME STUDY

In many schools lessons for home study are not assigned to children of the lower elementary grades. Most pupils do have home assignments in the junior and senior high schools.

How well your child applies himself at such home study will depend pretty largely upon the earlier habits and attitudes which he has acquired at home.

Many children in the grades, in junior or senior high school, even in college fail because they have not learned good study habits outside of school.

See that your child has a regular place and time for home study, that nothing interferes with it, and that when he has written home work he prepares it carefully and neatly, so as to hand it in at school on time.

Nightly Mental Exercise

Unfortunately teachers often are irregular in home work assignments. The child with a good imagination and readiness to escape work can cultivate the habit of reporting no home work when there really is some. Those who have home work occasionally will best succeed if on every night they will have some mental exercise.

If no assignments then some worthwhile reading for a regular definite period each evening preceding the school day will be desirable. With such habits cultivated, the child will have but little temptation to run away from the occasional assignments. We do not want him to have this exercise as punishment but rather as a means of keeping alive a good habit.

Consider your part of the program a huge success when, without a word from you, the child each evening preceding the school day goes at a regular hour to his place of study and employs himself profitably. Holidays and week ends play havoc with school work.

Monday's Lessons

The poorest lessons are recited, as a rule, on each Monday. It is hard to break with traditions; but the surest way to get home work done is to do it each Friday evening. At least there should be a definite week-end evening set aside for study.

Some children in high school have such a heavy program and take their work so seriously that they should, if possible, have little or nothing else to do. The best character training comes from doing alone, under self-compulsion and self-direction, things which have immediate and future value.

If you help your child with his home work don't make a nuisance of yourself. The moment you feel your breath irregular, your voice growing a little higher or any other signs of nervousness arising in you, walk away or go to bed. No parent with the slightest gesture of annoyance or anger is fit to be in the presence of a child attempting to study.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Please suggest a good way to make weaning easier than it is for some babies.

A. Begin as early as the fourth or fifth month to induce the baby to drink a little milk from a cup. Make patience and gentleness your watchwords, so as not to arouse any resistance in the infant to the cup. Keep at this from time to time, aiming to have the child gradually drink more and more from the cup.

The World and the Mud Puddles

LOSS OF FREEDOM

Which is worse—a government by Bureaucrats or a government by a Dictator? Either form of government is very bad. The government by Bureaucrats always tends to the government by a Dictator.

Just now there is a great deal being said and written by orators and writers regarding the glorious freedom of the citizens of the United States; in other words, the glory of our democracy. Well, the freedom of the American citizen is being curtailed every day by the administration in Washington. This Bureau and that Bureau seem to be determined on absolutely annihilating Capital. These Communistic Bureaucrats regard Capital only as something that may be taxed. And again I say, the law of diminishing returns will be seen in action more and more as the days go by. Every attack upon Capital, means less Capital to be taxed; every attack upon Capital means the destroying of the ambition of the American citizen to get on in the world, to become somebody and to have something for himself and family.

It has always been the desire of Kings and Dictators to muzzle the freedom of the Press. Far be it from them, say the Federal administration heroes, to interfere with the freedom of the Press, but insidiously they are gnawing away that which has always been the bulwark of freedom—free speech and a free Press.

Just now these Bureaucrats, headed originally by Rex Tugwell and now Leon Henderson, are seeking to suppress practically all forms of advertising. They say that advertising tends to create monopolies; that the small manufacturer and the small dealer are not able to compete with the large manufacturer.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 5:46. Sun rises tomorrow 5:56.

An Allegheny county soldier spends his spare time in camp crocheting, having recently completed a table cloth. What kind of an army is this we are raising.

The Irishman's pastor, in a kid-killing mood, asked: "How dya like your Italian boss, Pat?" To which our hero replied: "Foine, Father. And how dya like yours?"

Every time we pass an automobile agency, it makes us feel so sad, just to see all those nice, shiny, new automobile fenders, just waiting to get all battered up.

Bumblebees, we are informed, start working when only two days old. No wonder they are always mad enough to sting anybody.

SMART GIRL

I've a friend I'd like you girls to meet.

Athletic Girl—What can he do?
Chorus Girl—How much has he?
Literary Girl—What does he read?
Society Girl—Who are his family?
Religious Girl—What church does he belong to?
College Girl—Where is he?

One of the biggest troubles of the one-piece bathing suit is that too many people wear them who shouldn't.

In Atlanta, Ga., beginning women barbers learned the art of lathering a grapefruit and scraping the soap off until they no longer nicked the skin.

The scientists have discovered a new vitamin that costs $62,500,000 a pound but do not state whether this is wholesale or retail.

Willie—Daddy, what's a traitor?
Politician—A traitor is a man who leaves our party and goes over to the other side.

Willie—Then what's a man who leaves his party and comes over to your side?
Politician—A convert, my boy!

The man at the next desk says that the really "good old days" were when Hitler was referred to as a miniature Mussolini.

STRONG TALK

Husband (pointing to his 18-hole golf socks)—Why haven't you mended these?

Wife—Did you buy that evening wrap you promised me?
Husband—No.

Wife—Well, then, if you don't give a wrap, I don't give a darn.

These are admittedly dark and gloomy days, but we still can't understand how that mid-west baby changed to be born with gray hair.

Caution isn't a matter of going slow. If you are slower than the crowd, you get bumped from behind.

Shakespeare knew what he was talking about, when he asked, "What's in a name?" Someone has found a pub in England which goes by the name of "The Jolly Taxpayer." The English have such a quaint sense of humor.

Willie—Daddy, do they raise political plums from seeds?
Father—No, son. Sometimes a bit of grafting is necessary.

Our big job is to sacrifice everything for defense without making anybody feel it.

The other night an East Side man was awakened by a strange noise as was his wife, who immediately started fussing about burglars.

"Sh-h. dear. This is going to be a battle of brains."

To which his wife replied, "How brave of you dear, to fight unarmed."

Helen—Milton is one boy in a hundred.
Mary—Does he know he is competing with that many?

Alford—I think that new girl in the office has a soft spot in her heart for me. Says she's always thinking of me.

Batsky—Why, man, a girl doesn't think with her heart. The soft spot must be in her head.

Tooter—I know a joke you'll never get, dearie.
Miss Tute—Well, who said I wanted you?

Florida, we are informed by a news note, has a longer coast line than any other state in the Union. It probably has to accommodate all those photogenic bathing beauties who flock there each winter.

Boogy—Do you mean to tell me that you flirted with your wife all evening at the masquerade party and didn't know her?

Woody—Sure; but she was so agreeable, how was I to know her?

One of the biggest drawbacks about rising early with these birds, is that there is no one else up to applaud your courage.

Ruth—I want a lipstick, please.

Drug Clerk—What size?

Ruth—Oh, two rides and a week-end beach party.

"Do you want to buy the whole world with a fence around it?" the impatient merchant asked the small boy who was taking plenty of time figuring out what to buy with the copper cent in his hands.

The little fellow was deeply interested.
"Let's look at it," he answered.

A West Coast pedestrian, who was knocked down by an automobile, offered to pay for any damages to it. He must have thought he was an army tank and only wished to be patriotic.

Wimpus—When this war is over the rich will be richer and the poor poorer.

Berzam—Yes, and I presume the ones that are neither will be neither.

LAST RESORT

"How about a date?"
"Goodness, no."

"Oh I don't mean now. Some nasty wet winter afternoon when there's nobody else in town."

The Girl Next Door says that her boy friend reminds her of brown sugar, he's so sweet and unrefined.

LIFE'S LITTLE AGONIES

"May I have this dance?"
"I'm sorry, but I'm engaged."
"Oh, that's nothing—I'm married."

Heart trouble after fifty is especially dangerous if the cause is a blond.

What the judge asked the officer was: "What's the charge against the man?"

"Bigotry, yer honor. He's got three wives."

"I'm surprised at your ignorance—and a policeman, too. That's trigonometry, not bigotry."

"We shall do everything in our power to crush Hitler and his Nazi forces"—Roosevelt. If that leaves our course in doubt, words can't explain it.

Norwegians are being imprisoned or killed for their failure to appreciate being liberated.

Furnishing tools to Britain without pay won't hurt us. Remember what a boom it gave us the last time.

Canadians In Capital Cool Toward Duke
Ex-King Edward Receives Cold Shoulder
Americans, However, Exhibit Enthusiasm

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—It's rather odd that the Canadian contingent in Washington turned a pretty cold shoulder toward ex-King Edward, now the Duke of Windsor, during his recent visit in the United States.

Americans were enthusiastic over him, and over Wallie, the Duchess, too. So were the English—the embassy and members of John Bull's big purchasing staff in the District of Columbia. The Canadians, however, obviously had their fingers crossed. I suspect that such Australians and New Zealanders as we may have in our midst also had their fingers crossed. Anzacs, though, aren't numerous here. Canadians are quite so—newspaper correspondents and Dominion government agents. They didn't make faces at Wallie, but they made quite a few at Ed.

Moreover, evidently they reflected Canuck home sentiment very accurately.

Illustratively, Chester A. Bloom, representing the Winnipeg Free Press, showed me a copy of his paper, containing an article that's highly suggestive of our northern neighbors' frame of mind. To be sure, the Free Press didn't originate the comment under consideration, but reprinted it from the London Economist. Still, it quoted the Economist with obvious approval.

The Duke wasn't mentioned by name. The column was in criticism of a majority of England's ruling class. "But it's a class," said Chet Bloom, "that Ed's the living embodiment of."

"A Complete Fool"

The Economist dealt with the case of one Captain Ramsay, a member of parliament in London, who was arrested and interned on a charge of circuitously sending information "to the enemy." Even if he didn't do that, according to the Economist, at least he was identified with a society engaged in the circulation of literature indicative of "a leaning toward the enemies of Great Britain and a certain wasteful hope for the defeat of his native land."

But whether he's "disloyal or patriotic," continues the Economist, "there is one thing that Captain Ramsay undoubtedly is—a complete fool. How comes such a fool to be a member of parliament?"

It's because his family, answers the Economist, is socially extreme.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

LONDON—Dr. V. K. Willington Koo, Chinese ambassador to Britain, contends that it is wiser to think of how to win the war than to worry about post-war reconstruction.

"The possibility of building a better world depends upon the outcome of the struggle in which we are now engaged, and the only foundation of a permanent edifice of peace and security, justice and prosperity is the complete and final victory over the forces of violence and disorder."

PHILADELPHIA—Congressman Hamilton Fish of New York vows to stick by his isolationist guns until shown that the majority favor war.

"I would battle to death any effort on the part of the president to drag us into an undeclared war, but if congress, by virtue of the power vested in it by the constitution declared war, I would go to the people and urge them to support that war."

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Dr. Charles Seymour, president of Yale university, points out that the international stakes are so tremendous that there is no room for domestic quarrels in the U. S.

"The nation must be unified in the realization that only one thing matters—the elimination of the danger of world domination by totalitarian tyrants."

NEW YORK—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt contends that there are two types of isolationists:

"One can forgive these sincere idealists, but one can not forgive those who for personal and selfish reasons insist on being blind and advocate a course which would destroy us as a nation."

Unintelligent Evasion

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. AS the House hearings on the immensely important business of price control approach an end, Leon Henderson, the President's choice for Price Administrator, seems in a rather painful position. Instead of gaining ground either in Congress or outside, as a result of the elaborate explanations of his views, with which the record is filled, he appears to have lost ground. It is easy to understand.

AFTER Mr. B. M. Baruch had concluded the clearest and most convincing presentation of the whole subject which has yet been made, he endorsed Mr. Henderson as the best available man for the job of Price Administrator. At the time Mr. Henderson was in very bad odor in Congress. It had been charged that his organization was packed with Communistic men and women and that his own views were of an extremely radical nature. It was clear there would be bitter opposition to putting operation of the price law wholly in his hands. Under such circumstances, the endorsement of Mr. Baruch was of very great value to him.

IT naturally was taken as meaning that Mr. Baruch felt Mr. Henderson was in accord on the basic principles of the price-control problem and could be trusted to administer the law along sound lines. His stock rose considerably. Therefore it was a surprise when, a few days later, Mr. Henderson pummeled the Baruch plan all over the lot, dissenting from its chief features and lauding the pending bill, with all its glaring defects and absurdities. Various explanations of this were given. One was that it is typical of the extreme New Dealer first to reject an idea, no matter how inevitable its final acceptance may be, in order to approach it from another angle which will give the appearance of originality.

THE Baruch plan is as simple and inexact as the multiplication table. But to accept it as an outside suggestion would seem to mean that the Administration itself was bereft of new ideas. Had found it was on the wrong track and now must be guided by the counsel of experience.

HAPPYGRAMS

by ERICH BRANDEIS

Susie Popp, 300-pound New Jersey lobster boat operator, has retired and will hereafter just be a housewife on the barge of her lobsterman husband.

For seventeen years Susie has started out at two o'clock every morning, her boat loaded with bait, to go out to lobster pots anchored twenty-five miles off shore.

Sixteen years ago she rescued three men who had fallen overboard from a passing ship, and once, when she was out with her husband, her boat started leaking and she operated a hand pump for five hours while her husband rowed them to safety.

So, you think you are leading a hard life?

How about Susie? A housewife's life—drugstore to most women—is retirement to her.

1775—Robert Adams, mathematician, at Carrickfergus, Ireland. He was the outstanding mathematician of his time in America. His greatest achievement was his consideration of the exponential law of error which Gauss demonstrated a year later and which generally bears the latter's name. Adams gave two proofs, however, and the honor of priority belongs to him.

1817—John Weiss Forney, Philadelphia journalist, at Lancaster, Pa. In 1845 President Polk appointed Forney deputy surveyor of the port of Philadelphia, which enabled him to become proprietor and editor of the Pennsylvania. In 1854 he became a partner in the Washington Daily Union and later he established the Chronicle, a daily at Philadelphia, and Progress, a weekly magazine.

State To Aid Discharged Men

Employment Aid Will Be Furnished Men Released From Service

COMMITTEE TO BE NAMED BY JAMES

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—A system of employment aid will soon be set up in Pennsylvania for the benefit of draftees mustered out of service, especially those who reach the age of 28.

State selective service officials said Gov. Arthur H. James would soon announce the appointment of 422 re-employment committeemen, one for each selective service board in the state. These officials, who will serve without pay, will attempt to see to it that soldiers who return to private life obtain work.

"The re-employment committeeman will act as a liaison man between the returning soldier, his draft board and employers in his district," explained a spokesman for the state selective service headquarters.

Here is the way the plan, which is being placed in operation throughout the entire nation, will work:

Some time before a draftee receives his honorable discharge from the army, the re-employment committeeman will be notified. It will then be his task to check the type of work done by the soldier before he entered the army. The committeeman will also contact the soldier's former employer to see whether his job is still open. When the soldier return home he will contact his committeeman and will inform him of his exact status. "He will tell his committeeman whether he is returning to his old job, whether he has a new one in prospect, or if he is unemployed," explained the state selective service spokesman.

The re-employment committeemen will work "very closely" with the personnel managers of industries within their districts. It was stated, "and it will be up to them to keep themselves advised of job opportunities."

The first trickle of men discharged from the army under the 28-year ruling are now beginning to return home and more are expected in the near future. A batch of some 200 are expected to be released soon from the U. S. military post at Indiantown Gap and officials there believe that some 2000 men in all will be honorably discharged from the 28th Division.

Murder Charge In Beaver Case

(International News Service)

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 30.—An information will be filed against Edward Horbelt, 35, for the murder of Mrs. Viola Moffett, who was shot and killed in a brawl in Horbelt's apartment yesterday, police said today.

Two other persons, O. R. Wallace, 35, of Rochester, and Margaret Shewak, 45, of Beaver Falls, who police said witnessed the murder of the 45-year-old mother of two daughters, are being held as material witnesses.

Horbelt has a painting contract at the Curtiss-Wright Propeller plant. His home is in Maplewood, N. J. He is married and has three children.

County Detective W. L. Ambrose said a search has failed to turn up the murder gun. Both Horbelt and Wallace were brought to Pittsburgh for paraffin tests of their hands.

Freshman Regulations To Be Strictly Enforced

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 30.—The strong arm of the Block W. Westminster varsity lettermen's group in sports, will be utilized this year to enforce "Freshman regulations," following action of the Titan Student Council group on the campus this week.

All Freshmen must wear blue and white "dinks" (caps) until the final home football game; must address upperclassmen by their first names, and always give up their seats in eating places if upperclassmen want them.

During the week Sept. 29 until October 4, all Freshmen are denied the privilege of "co-educating" (dating); and must wear white cardboard signs, front and back, nine by twelve inches, bearing the student's name in letters three inches high. This regulation is enforced so that upperclassmen can learn the names of underclass students.

During Freshman Regulations week, yearling co-eds must make up one side only of their face; and freshmen men will shave only one side. Co-eds will wear green bows, and black stockings; and collegians will wear green bow-ties.

Culminating Freshman Regulations Week is the Sophomore Tribunal, Friday night, to which all Freshmen must come, dressed as some movie star. At this time, penalties are passed out for "disobedient and unruly" frosh.

DISORDERS SERIOUS IN NAZI-HELD LANDS

largely responsible for the growing spirit of revolt in the conquered territories. They are:

1. Russian resistance, which appears to have encouraged the conquered peoples to believe that the German army is not as invincible as it seemed following the spectacular victories in western Europe and the Balkans.

2. American short wave radio broadcasts direct to the occupied territories, telling the conquered peoples in their own language of this country's increased aid to Great Britain, and urging them to resist the axis "new order".

These short wave radio broadcasts are sponsored by the government, directed both by the state department and Colonel William J. Donovan's office for the coordination of information.

Send American News

Day and night, these short wave broadcasts send American news on a direct beam into the conquered countries. The news is broadcast in the language of the country to which it is directed. Many of the speakers are former leaders of those countries now in exile.

The native-speaking broadcasters tell the conquered peoples of Germany's difficulties in Russia; of the American navy's order to "shoot first" at axis warships on this side of the Atlantic. They also assure them that the American government is now definitely committed to bringing about the defeat of Hitler.

Those who are directing the short wave radio service believe the present revolt in Serbia is due largely to the effects of the American broadcasts.

However, the broadcasts are not directed at urging the conquered peoples to stage a general revolt at this time. They are intended to encourage those people not to lose hope and to prepare for the day when Great Britain and the United States launch a land offensive on the continent of Europe.

Camille Chautemps, former premier of France, who conferred yesterday with Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles on the situation in France, said:

"The disorders are a symbol of the spirit of revolt among the conquered peoples. They serve to inform Great Britain and the United States that a helping hand will be extended to any force landed on the continent of Europe to defeat the German army."

ROME CLAIMS BIG VICTORIES

Nelson had been sunk drew the fire of British newspapers. The London Daily Express said there was "no truth" in the report. The Times of London commented: "In the past Italian claims often have been fantastic. On this occasion the propagandists have surpassed themselves."

The Italian air force lost eight torpedo planes and several airmen, including a wing commander and three squadron commanders who killed while leading their formations into action.

Six British fighters from an aircraft carrier were said to have been "shot down in flames into the sea."

Loss of British lives was termed probably heavy, although no official estimate was made.

British Denial

London, Sept. 30.—The huge battleship Nelson which in name and 33,950 tons of fighting power symbolizes Britain's proud claim to rule the waves, was hit by an Italian aerial torpedo in a running air-sea battle in the Mediterranean on Saturday, the admiralty announced today.

Denying Rome reports that the dreadnaught, which with the ill-fated Hood bore the two names most expressive of Britain's maritime might and majesty, had also been sent to the bottom, the admiralty asserted that a single torpedo hit had merely slowed her up, causing no casualties.

FULLEST POSSIBLE SUPPORT TO SOVIET IS PROMISE OF U. S.

Moscow was an historic one because the United States is not a belligerent.

"But we come with your ally Britain with the same object: To give you every assistance in your heroic, magnificent struggle against the violent, uncalculated attack by that man Hitler and his cohorts."

"Your success means everything to the American people."

"I am instructed to pledge you the fullest support possible today, tomorrow and as long as the struggle lasts until ultimate victory comes."

Six committees were appointed representing the army, navy, air force, transport, raw materials and medical supply agencies, which will report on Soviet needs Friday.

Urgency of the conference was symbolized by the presence of Marshal Klementi Voroshilov, commander of Russian forces on the northern front, who came to Moscow from Leningrad for the opening session.

Last night Premier Josef Stalin held a second conversation with Harriman and Lord Beaverbrook

Russian Success

The latest Russian success on the Leningrad battlefield was described in a supplementary high command announcement which said:

"In seven days of fighting on the Leningrad front, Soviet tank units have dealt heavy blows, inflicting casualties on 2,500 enemy troops and destroying or knocking out of action 36 tanks and numerous artillery batteries.

"Mummissar" Pakolov's battalion captured 150 trucks loaded with provisions, equipment and ammunition.

"The same battalion on Friday raided a large enemy airdrome, destroying 28 enemy aircraft."

The regular midnight communique told of continued "stubborn" fighting on the entire front and said complete data showed that on Sept. 26 no less than 113 German planes were shot down while on the following day 150 German planes were destroyed. Soviet losses were placed at 28 machines.

Kilgallen Gives His Impressions Of Army From Close Association

(Editor's Note: For the past month, James L. Kilgallen, International News Service staff reporter, has been covering the country's biggest peace-time maneuver in Louisiana, and in the following article he sums up his impressions based on a close-up association with the nation's new army.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 30. — America's young and growing army, 1941 model, is a smart, hard-hitting organization that will soon be ready to "go places and do things"—if necessary.

Observing half a million of our 1,500,000 citizen-soldiers maneuvering in simulated warfare in Louisiana the past month, I have formed these impressions:

1. The morale of our soldiers is all right. I have the word of Lieut. Gen. L. J. McNair, the army's chief training officer, that the army "never has been concerned about morale."

2. Admittedly, there is a shortage of equipment. Yet this fact is not seriously affecting the training of our troops. The Germans trained for years with wooden guns and cardboard tanks.

3. Uncle Sam's army is young, tough, eager to learn, and radiates enthusiasm and initiative.

4. Although officer personnel on the whole is good, there is room for improvement. We need more capable, young officers. A number of middle-aged and elderly reserve officers, who are serving their country patriotically and at a personal sacrifice, may have to be weeded out.

5. The physical condition of our soldiers is superb and getting better all the time.

"Normal Growth"

I have talked with hundreds of soldiers and while a comparative few of them have a "normal growth" about something or other, there is no question about their patriotism, courage and spirit. You can't congregate 500,000 men anywhere and not find a little "squawking."

General McNair took occasion at a critique to pay tribute to the spirit of our men when he saluted the memory of two soldiers who lost their lives swimming a river in a mock "battle" in order to further their company's attack.

The outstanding thing demonstrated in these maneuvers, according to General McNair, was "the devotion and spirit of our soldiers."

In one year's time our men have been whipped into a sound, fighting force. They never will be considered "100 per cent trained" and their training will continue. When they will be fit for actual combat is a matter of opinion. But General McNair says they are in better shape today to give a good account of themselves than were our soldiers in 1917.

I am no military expert. But what impressed me most the past month has been the swift striking ability of our mechanized forces, the skill of our airmen, especially the dive bombers, and the daring and efficient execution of our parachute troops.

Favorably Impressed

I was favorably impressed, too, by the workmanship of our artillery and infantrymen, the capabilities of our engineers in constructing emergency bridges, the courage of our reconnaissance outfits, the skill of our signal corps and "G-2" intelligence units, and the dependability of our supply departments.

It was nerve-rattling to ride into "battle" with Major General Bruce Magruder's crack first armored division and thrill to its "blitz" attacks. It was quite a spectacle to watch our dive bombers swoop down at 70 per cent angle and score direct hits on targets. And it was nothing short of marvelous to be on the spot and see Company A, 502nd Battalion, drop paratroops, guns and ammunition in parachutes on to a field behind the enemy's lines and see the men quickly arm themselves with rifles and machine-guns and go into action.

Although our troops worked day and night for weeks, moving over dusty roads and across insect-infested terrain, never once did I hear a complaint of overwork. The boys have stamina.

The skill and tactical ability of the two opposing generals in the "war" just ended—Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the "Red" second army, and Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger, who directed the "Blue" third army—deserves the highest praise.

"Summing up, I'd say our young army is all right, really getting somewhere—an organization of officers and men of whom our country can well feel proud."

What's What At A Glance

ly tony, rich and aristocratic. Otherwise, asserts the Economist, "the odds against his getting into the house of commons would have been 1,000 to 1."

It wouldn't greatly matter, the Economist goes on, if he were an isolated specimen—"but it's common knowledge that the intellectual level of the house of commons since 1931 has been deplorably low. The political bosses jobbed into it a solid block of M. P.'s stupid enough to jeer at Winston Churchill and to applaud the moral grandeur of Stanley Baldwin and the foresight of Neville Chamberlain—just the group required to uphold their calamitous foreign policy and blindness to the danger in which the country stood.

"There's a long score to settle with men who put Captain Ramsay into parliament."

"AND HIS LIKE!" That's the nub of it. Captain Ramsay wouldn't particularly matter, all by himself. What makes the London Economist and the Canucks so sore is their size-up of a probable parliamentary majority of the same sort as they estimate the captain to be.

Refers to History

"To understand it," says Chet Bloom, "all you have to do is to read history. After the Cromwellian wars, control of England finally drifted back into the so-called 'best families' hands. Thenceforward, as fast as a genuinely democratic Englishman got sick of it, he streaked it out from his home island for Canada or Australia or New Zealand or maybe for the United States, and so it's gone on until this day.

"And now the Duke of Windsor! Phooey!"

Incidentally Chet forecasts that the London Economist's editor, if he isn't careful, presently will find himself in jail—not for what he wrote about Captain Ramsay, but for implying that practically all England's "best families" consist of "persons of strong, sterling, natural insignificance."

The Economist's editor isn't safe in Canada, either. He's right in London, where he can be attended to.

HE found himself able to speak firmly about farm prices (are not farmers human beings, too?) and later about business profits, over which he wants to put a very rigid six per cent ceiling—but he does not want to put any ceiling over wages at all. It is a pity he checked short here and it is difficult not to believe that the reasons were political instead of economic—that he flunked that jump because of the consistent White House unwillingness to oppose the leaders of organized labor on any proposition whatever. On this issue these leaders, being all engaged in an effort to push wages up and extend their power, naturally oppose any governmental restraint. It is too bad Mr. Morgenthau could not bring himself to advocate the flexible regulations of wages which Mr. Baruch suggests and which does not affect the right to strike nor the right to more money when a case can be made out. However, it was fine to see him otherwise in accord—and especially in the matter of food prices. His was the first Administration voice to be raised on that subject—and it took courage for him to raise it.

THAT, at least, segregates him from Mr. Henderson. It is a strange thing that it seems to penetrate the minds of neither Administration politicians nor labor leaders that the plan to include regulation of both wages and food prices, so as to make possible real price control, is directly in the interests of the farmer and the laborer, not against them. Once prices run away—and they are bound to run away with no restraint on wages and food prices—the chief sufferers will be the farmers and the laborers. Their real friends are those who want to include them—not those who insist upon excluding them. It does not take much intelligence to understand that. Yet politics in our country is such that the statesmen who understand it very clearly indeed evade saving so publicly.

The Great Game Of Politics

—an altogether abhorrent idea in higher Administration circles. Another explanation was that Mr. Henderson could not publicly agree with the Baruch plans without repudiating those of his young counsel, David Ginsberg, who, it is understood, drew the pending measure.

A THIRD explanation was that the close political link of the New Deal with the labor and farm lobbies made it impossible for Mr. Henderson to follow Mr. Baruch in urging control of food prices and wages. And, finally, it was said that Mr. Henderson is so congenitally controversial and loquacious that he could not refrain from making an argument, though with some of what he said he did not himself fully agree. At any rate, the net result is that the situation, which had seemed to be clarifying, once more has become confused and the opposition to Mr. Henderson, which had lessened with the Baruch endorsement, has stiffened very much—particularly in the Senate, where the swing toward sanity seems a little stronger than formerly.

HOWEVER, it was Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau who pushed Mr. Henderson farther out on the limb. Because Mr. Morgenthau, when let alone, generally talks good sense, made a strong statement which sounded so like Mr. Baruch's statement (except for one thing) that it might easily have been made by that gentleman. Actually, Mr. Baruch had said, including the necessity of putting the ceiling over farm prices, at which Mr. Henderson had balked, and to which the Administration has seemed opposed.

THE one exception was the matter of wage regulation. There Mr. Morgenthau succumbed. He took every hurdle but the last one. In opposing wage regulation he declared that "in free countries labor is not a commodity; human beings are not property and should not be treated as such." That, of course, was just a piece of demagoguery. No one has as much as hinted that labor should be treated as human beings—and Mr. Morgenthau well knows it. Also, he knows that, while labor is not a commodity, the wages of labor are the chief factor in commodity prices and to permit them to run wild means that no price control can be effective and inflation cannot be averted.

HE found himself able to speak firmly about farm prices (are not farmers human beings, too?) and later about business profits, over which he wants to put a very rigid six per cent ceiling—but he does not want to put any ceiling over wages at all. It is a pity he checked short here and it is difficult not to believe that the reasons were political instead of economic—that he flunked that jump because of the consistent White House unwillingness to oppose the leaders of organized labor on any proposition whatever. However, it was fine to see him otherwise in accord—and especially in the matter of food prices. THAT, at least, segregates him from Mr. Henderson. It is a strange thing that it seems to penetrate the minds of neither Administration politicians nor labor leaders that the plan to include regulation of both wages and food prices, so as to make possible real price control, is directly in the interests of the farmer and the laborer, not against them. THAT, at least, segregates him from Mr. Henderson. It is a strange thing that it seems to penetrate the minds of neither Administration politicians nor labor leaders that the plan to include regulation of both wages and food prices, so as to make possible real price control, is directly in the interests of the farmer and the laborer, not against them. Once prices run away—and they are bound to run away with no restraint on wages and food prices—the chief sufferers will be the farmers and the laborers. Their real friends are those who want to include them—not those who insist upon excluding them. It does not take much intelligence to understand that. Yet politics in our country is such that the statesmen who understand it very clearly indeed evade saving so publicly.

British Are Staging Real "Peace Offensive" Against Italy By Raids

(Editor's Note: Once again rumors have arisen of the possibility of a separate peace between Italy and Great Britain. Following is a careful analysis of the true situation by Percy Winner, for many years chief of the International News Service in Rome.)

By PERCY WINNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The British are today staging a "peace offensive" against Italy of the only kind that stands a chance of knocking Italy out of the war.

They are bringing the war home to Italians on a nation-wide scale. For the first time since Benito Mussolini made up his people's mind to fight with and for the Germans, the British have bombed nine cities in a single series of raids. They have brought not merely war-on-the-rebound kind of suffering but the actual death and destruction of war itself home to all of Italy from the Alps to the Mediterranean.

This, in the opinion of all really competent observers inside Italy, is the only kind of "peace offensive" that will work despite a new wave of wish-fulfillment pipe-dreams that the Italians are on the verge of a crack-up, teetering on the brink of revolt, or getting ready to sue for a separate peace.

Know Nazi Attitude
The Italians, realists and fatalists by temperament and tradition, know that the slightest gesture toward dropping out of the war would invite hordes of Nazis to their country as bitter and brutal overlords.

A great majority of the Italians—their minds formed by a generation of monopolistic Fascist propaganda—will stay in the war until they are knocked out. And this can be done by what the British are finally beginning to do after more than a year of waiting—heavy air raids.

Bread rationing which has brought bread lines back to the streets of Italian cities for the first time since the world war is undoubtedly causing angry grumbling, as did a whole series of food deprivations which have reduced Italy to a standard of living that would be unbearable for Americans.

Many Italians protest with big words in tight little huddles but the record shows they are not prepared for even little acts of protest, first because discomfort is not starvation; second, because their standards have always been very low.

"If there's one thing England definitely can't do," said an influential Italian to me in Rome some weeks ago, "it's to break our morale by forcing us to tighten our belts. The poorer we become the more our propaganda machine can lay at the doorsteps of the British who are blamed for having always prevented us from getting some sort of fair break in the distribution of the world's goods."

"No single factor strengthens Italian morale and loyalty to the Germans more than Anglo-Saxon underestimation of our courage, endurance and ability to live up to our bargains," my Italian friends have told me again and again. "This time we shall show them that whether or not we have made a mistake, we shall see it through to the end."

Protests Defer Proposal Of Corporation Measure At Washington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Subjected to sharp criticism from business men and congress members, Secretary Morgenthau's proposal for a 6 per cent limit on corporation profits was put on the shelf Monday.

The treasury head announced that the plan would not be formally proposed to congress before next year, and would not, in any event, apply to 1941 business.

"Drafting the plan is not complete," he told a press conference, "and from talks with my staff I can tell you it will take several months so it will be after the first of January before we can get ready and then it will apply on 1942 business, if enacted."

Morgenthau advocated last week that the government, for the period of the emergency, take through taxes all corporation profits in excess of 6 per cent of their invested capital.

Price Control Approval Asked

Federal Reserve Board Head Says Nation Faces Non-Defense Shortages

"CONTROL OF WAGES CAN'T BE LEFT OUT"

By GRIFFING BANCROFT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Warning that the civilian population must prepare for further "acute shortages" of non-military commodities, Marriner Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve board, on Monday told congress that "lockouts and strikes are intolerable in times of national peril."

Testifying before the House Banking and Currency committee, Eccles pleaded for speedy approval of the administration's price control bill "as an essential part of a broad program to prevent inflation."

Not Realistic
The reserve board head endorsed the pending bill, but declared firmly that "you cannot leave wages and salaries which are the main factors in prices to rise indiscriminately and be realistic about preventing inflation."

The bill, as drafted by the administration, specifically exempts wages from the contemplated control.

Meanwhile a poll of the House Banking committee indicated that the group will vote about 12 to 9 in favor of a selective price control bill along the general lines recommended by the administration.

Four votes are still doubtful and others might change, but indications are that supporters of a general blanket bill imposing a ceiling on the entire price structure, have insufficient strength to be successful.

Favor Substitutes
Six votes were tallied as being certain to be in favor of the blanket substitutes which will be offered by Rep. Gore (D) Tenn., when the committee goes into executive sessions. Two or three other votes were listed as being opposed to any kind of a price control bill and supporters of the Gore plan are working to enlist this strength against the selective measure.

Meanwhile, the Brookings institution, warning of a "vicious spiral of rising costs," said that the administration's bill is inadequate to meet the situation and called for reduced prices of important farm products and control over wages.

The bill as offered by the administration would permit ceilings only on certain commodities the prices of which show definite inflationary tendencies, would specifically prohibit control of wages, and drastically limit controls over rent and farm prices. The substitute plan would permit imposition of ceiling over everything, specifically including wages.

Run Into Wire In Darkness While Attending Game At Reeves Stadium Friday

British Cruiser At Philadelphia For Some Repairs

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Another British warship—the 400-ton cruiser Manchester—has put in at the Philadelphia navy yard on the Delaware river for a "general refit."

This information was released officially today by Rear Admiral A. E. Watson, commandant of the Philadelphia navy yard, where England's 33,500-ton battleship Resolution had a gaping hole in her hull repaired during the summer. U. S. naval officials revealed in Washington a week ago that the Resolution had returned to duty on the high seas.

The Manchester is one of a class of modern heavy cruisers. Mounting 12 six-inch guns, she was completed in 1937 and has a listed speed of 32 knots. The warship, commanded by Captain H. Drew, came into port with a complement of approximately 700 officers and men.

LEAVE NYA FOR DEFENSE WORK

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—That young people are doing their share in the national defense program is revealed in employment figures compiled by the Pennsylvania National Youth Administration.

During July, 2,190 young men and young women left the N. Y. A. program to take jobs in private industry. Of this number nearly 1,000 went directly into manufacturing and industrial plants, the majority of which are working on defense orders. Many obtained jobs in construction, agriculture and forestry transportation, and in fields allied to defense work. Others found jobs with utility, mercantile, and public agencies.

DELINQUENT MERCANTILE TAX.
In spite of warnings both through the paper and by mail, a number of merchants seem to be headed for a larger payment of their mercantile taxes than they anticipated. Many of them are delinquent and on October 1, the list goes into the hands of aldermen for collection.

Merchants with pin ball machines seem to be the slowest paying their mercantile taxes. The tax on the first pin ball machine is $20 and $10 on each additional, making a total of $30 due for a merchant with two machines. The penalty for not paying this tax on time is fifty per cent which adds $15 to the tax. The fees for collection run about $4.

Merchants who are still delinquent on October 1 will be served with collection notices and have the penalties to pay, according to County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer.

Opposition To Canal Project Is Predicted

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Rep. Rodgers (R) Pa., today predicted "a lot of opposition" to the proposed $37,000,000 canalization project in Pennsylvania and Ohio when the House Rivers and Harbors Committee, of which he is a member, begins consideration of the proposal today.

The project contemplates canalization of the Beaver river in Pennsylvania and of the Mahoning river to Struthers, Ohio.

"They'll have to convince me that this idea is feasible," Rodgers said. "I know there will be a lot of opposition to it."

Rep. Kerwan (D) O., heads the list of proponents to be heard. Rodgers, in questioning the feasibility of the plan, said that several years ago the army engineers made a report stating that the rivers in question were winding streams, not readily adaptable to canalization, that there was insufficient year-round water, and that widening of the streams would interfere with many industries built along the banks.

U. S. Payroll In '42 Greater Than '18 Peak

50,000 Federal Workers Added Monthly Since Report In June

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The United States, technically still at peace, has piled more civilian workers on the payroll for the current 1917-18 to help fight the World War.

In the 16 months from June 30, 1917, just after U. S. entry into the war, until the Armistice of November 11, 1918, the federal payroll increased from 517,805 to 917,740 workers—a 400,000 increase.

Even before the defense speedup began in June, 1940, there were 1,002,820 federal jobholders—more than at the World War peak.

By July 31 of this year, it is estimated, there were more than 1,400,000 federal workers—meaning a defense-program increase approximately the same as in the World War—and the total is well past this today.

The greatest increases have come in the war and navy departments, although the new defense agencies—SPAB, OPM, OPA and others—have become busy bureaus in recent months. The FPM payroll as of September 15 included 3,799 persons.

The war department on July 1 has 320,000 civilian workers, or far more than double what it had a year earlier. In the same year, civilian workers in the navy department increased from 117,000 to 222,000.

But the increase has not been confined to the strictly defense establishments. The treasury had 59,000 employees in June, 1940, and 65,000 in June this year; the state department advanced from 4,900 to 7,000 in the same period, and the justice department from 14,000 to 21,000.

Salaries are much higher than in the World War period. The great majority of persons who poured into Washington in that wartime boom were paid $900 or $1,000 a year. Today the junior typist starts at $1,260 and a senior typist gets $1,440.

Administrative officers in the state department made $2,000, $3,000 and $4,000 a year—a $3,000 job was considered very good indeed. Today administrative salaries are commonly $5,000, $6,000, $7,000 or $8,000 a year. This increase is not due to the defense boom alone, but has been gradual since a 1923 salary reclassification act.

Wm. S. Emley To Teach At Rutgers

Co.

Mrs. Emley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Gordon of Highland avenue.

Build Addition To Machine Shop

Construction was started Monday on the new addition to the Forney Machine shop located at the corner of Elm and Falls street. The foundations were begun and within thirty days it is hoped the addition will be ready for occupancy.

In size the addition will be 40x75 feet, one story in height and concrete block in construction.

A constant increase in orders for precision machine work and welding has added men and equipment to the Forney organization until today the workers are cramped for space. At the present time 20 craftsmen are employed.

A divided nation is a farce. Let's either unite to defend our country or all quit trying and let nature take its course.

Salvation Army Gets Part Of Chest Funds

SALVATION ARMY HOME

Will Rogers once said: "We have a very remarkable woman out here in Los Angeles, Evangeline Booth, the head of the world's greatest and most useful organization, the Salvation Army. Now she says that things are better. Now that really means something. What could be a greater barometer of the affairs of the unfortunate than her army? All the other men who deal in predictions deal in money. She deals in people. They look at the stock market for answer. She looks at the notches in the belts. The Salvation Army is proof of how respected and useful an organization can get if you keep it out of politics. So when Evangeline Booth says something about 'folks' it means something for she seeks nothing from us but our own end and out. She takes care of others' blunders."

It is interesting to learn just what the Salvation Army is doing right here in New Castle. The relief given is practically all to local people. In the past year one hundred families were given garments and shoes; twenty-one families were given furniture; groceries to sixty-one families; one hundred seventy Christmas baskets. Over nine hundred seventy dollars was given for relief expenditure. Captain Anderson mentioned one case as an example: "The family needed some one to show them a little loving kindness. When I first visited this home they were living in an old dilapidated school house. The room had been partitioned with screens. The walls were covered with communistic signs and slogans. The family felt that society was against them and so became Communists."

We began our work by having the children brought to Sunday school. A son in the reformatory was paroled to me. Today the family is much happier. The children are regular attenders at church and the parents have stopped their communistic activities.

The Salvation Army stresses character building. Captain Anderson has many stories to tell of people who have been helped and have become self-supporting and honorable citizens. Surely this worthy cause deserves the support of the community.

The Salvation Army receives a large share of its support from the annual Community Chest Drive. You can help the Salvation Army best by boosting the Chest.

Man now flies higher than any other living creature. This presents new physiological and medical problems. The human machine must have adequate oxygen for normal life. Oxygen in the blood stream runs brain as well as moving parts. Every single remote body cell must receive its supply of oxygen. Lack of oxygen is known as anoxemia.

The "ceiling" for most aviators is 15,000 feet (3 miles). Above that artificial administration of oxygen is necessary.

Today's fliers must remain long periods at high altitudes. Aviators now ascend to 33,000 feet in the line of duty.

To do so, they must have proper equipment and training. Normal oxygen pressure in lungs, brain and muscles must be maintained.

Johnny ISN'T on the Spot!

Here is Sergei Michaelovich, of Moscow. He'd be surprised to learn that American boys have roller skates and bicycles and movies. Why? All he knows is what Stalin told him: "Children of the capitalist nations are slaves." When it comes to getting the truth, Sergei is on the spot. He gets only what the dictator hands out.

Here is Johann Schmidt, of Berlin. He thinks little boys should go without butter so the Fuehrer can have bombs to kill other boys. Why? Because Hitler's propaganda tells him so, and nobody tells him anything different—he's on the spot, too.

Here is Giuseppe Giano, of Rome. He yells, "Duce! Duce! Duce!" with the rest of the Italian children. He thinks Mussolini is a big hero leading his troops to glorious victory. Why? Everybody in Italy is afraid to tell him the truth!

Here's Johnny Jones—United States citizen, who ISN'T on the spot! He KNOWS what's going on in Moscow, Berlin and Rome, because the newspapers print FACTS. He knows what his own government is doing, too, because the NEWS comes right into his home for the whole family to read and discuss.

Theirs is the right to approve or to criticize—to change the course of the government's action, if they and their fellow American citizens see fit.

Informed citizens rule this Democracy.

That's why Johnny Jones, as he comes to manhood and becomes a voter, will have a big edge on Sergei and Giuseppe and Johann. HE'S going to help run his government. THEIR government is going to run THEM. HE'S going to choose the things he buys for his monthly salary, just as he chooses candy or sodas for his weekly allowance now. They're going to buy what the dictators tell them.

The newspapers will play a big part in the life of Johnny Jones. They'll give him the facts that make it possible for him to cast an intelligent vote. They'll carry advertisements that make it possible for him to buy wisely.

They'll go on being the bulwark protecting American Democracy.

Doctors See Cadets, Decisions Awaited

Pittsburgh Examiners Will Report On Local Youths This Week

Examining specialists of the Army's Aviation Cadet Board at Pittsburgh today checked the health of the second squad of nine New Castle district young men who, thanks to the New Castle Elks lodge, have hopes of becoming Army Cadet Pilots.

Nine others were examined yesterday, but Recruiting Sergeant Owen E. Tighe said no report of their findings has come back to the New Castle office yet. He expects a full report on the 18 will come shortly.

The fortunate youths passed a preliminary physical exam here about a week ago.

Winning an "OK" from Maj. E. D. Hockenberry, flight surgeon, and his assisting examiners will qualify the young men for the first Free Cadet Pilot Course to be offered here by the Elks in conjunction with Army authorities.

The local Elks are leading other lodges in their tie-in efforts with the Army "Keep 'em Flying" program.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Man now flies higher than any other living creature.

This presents new physiological and medical problems.

The human machine must have adequate oxygen for normal life.

Oxygen in the blood stream runs brain as well as moving parts.

Every single remote body cell must receive its supply of oxygen.

Lack of oxygen is known as anoxemia.

The "ceiling" for most aviators is 15,000 feet (3 miles).

Above that artificial administration of oxygen is necessary.

Today's fliers must remain long periods at high altitudes.

Aviators now ascend to 33,000 feet in the line of duty.

To do so, they must have proper equipment and training.

Reports Of Huge Losses In Eastern Front War Stir Big Controversies

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIG
U. S. Marine Corps, Retired (Written Especially For International News Service)

The fabulous figures for the other fellow's losses given out both by Berlin and Moscow are giving rise to tremendous controversies among the highbrows and braintrusts of all the general staffs and war colleges of the world.

Apparently two of the most cherished theories of military masterminds are being sent whirling out the window by the things that are taking place on the colossal Russo-German front. The first of these is that war is becoming progressively less bloody, due to mechanization and modern invention. The second is that after losses of approximately 10 per cent, formations of troops must be retrained, reorganized and brought up to strength with replacements.

Formerly Widely Accepted
Both these generalizations have been pretty widely accepted among military men of late, but now there is every indication that these, like other previously accepted theories, are being smashed to flinders. It is admittedly impossible to secure any definitely authoritative figures on which to base arguments, but the verbal wars are proceeding none the less vigorously.

The Germans have reported huge Soviet losses on three different occasions; early in August, towards the end of that month and during the past few days. On each occasion, Berlin has intimated that these losses meant the definite end of Red resistance. Moscow during two periods has announced towering Nazi casualties, and similarly intimated German collapse.

Colossal Claims
Total Nazi claims for Red losses seem to add up to the colossal total of 8,000,000 killed, wounded and missing. Check of Soviet communiques indicates that, according to Moscow, Nazi losses in the same three categories sum up to 5,000,000. These are impossible figures. Very few German or Russian soldiers would be left if they were correct. However, military men of Vichy, France, and our own Washington—who have better sources of information than most of us—nearly a month ago estimated losses at 1,000,000 for German forces, "much more than that" for the Soviets.

Cross-computing these figures and cutting the result in half, it seems that one may be warranted in guessing Russian losses at 4,000,000 men, and those of the Germans at about half that number. Even these are staggering totals. There have been no such losses previously in any of mankind's wars in such quick time. They represent about 40 per cent of the generally accepted total of Russian army strength, a little less than that percentage of Nazi military man power.

Must Revive Theory
Such losses would represent the most dramatic kind of reversal to the theory that wars are growing less bloody, upheld for a generation by many military intellectuals. Ancient war, said these theorists, was most bloody of all. At Cannae in 216 B. C., 60 per cent of the Roman army was killed by Hannibal's Carthaginians.

At Waterloo in 1815, after fire-arms had come, the English lost 22 per cent of their engaged forces. At Gettysburg in 1863, when breech-loading rifles began to appear, the Union army lost 8½ per cent. At the Meuse-Argonne, against machine guns, modern artillery and tanks, losses of the American Expeditionary force were only 2½ per cent.

Thus ran the theory. The wars of today were expected to be less bloody, largely because it was believed that when tanks had surrounded infantrymen and planes had helped put them into impossible positions, they would surrender without bloodshed. Such experts as Britain's Liddell Hart and Germany's General Guderian of tank fame, subscribed to this opinion. This has emphatically not worked out. Surrounded units, both Soviet and Nazi, almost always have fought to the last.

Keep On Fighting
So much for the theory of war's decreasing deadliness. Equally impressive has been the shattering of the doctrine that when a military unit has suffered 10 per cent casualties, it must be withdrawn to a rest sector for reorganization and replacement. Both Red army and Nazi communiques abound in accounts of divisions which have been reduced to a couple of infantry battalions, about one-fifth of their original strength, and have gone right on fighting.

Perhaps the reason may lie in the intensive courses of indoctrination to which the youth of Germany and Russia alike have been subjected during recent years. Indoctrination in a new military arm to mold the soldier's mind. By its pressures, men can be taught to defy pain and suffering, to glory even in death.

Orders Big Cut In Production Of Refrigerators

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—OPM Priorities Director Donald M. Nelson today ordered a sweeping 43.2 per cent cut in mechanical refrigerator production for the five-month period that started August 1, and warned that similar limitation programs are being worked out for other durable goods such as washing machines, electrical appliances and vacuum cleaners.

The refrigerator industry, which employs 43,000 workers, may be forced to cut its working staffs in half. Already some layoffs have been reported because of shortages of materials. Nelson, in ordering the slash in output, made it clear that he merely was setting the maximum number of refrigerators that could be produced, revealing that he told manufacturers that there is no guarantee that there will be sufficient materials available to reach these maximums.

Nelson's action was taken in response to a recommendation by Leon Henderson, federal price administrator and director of the OPM civilian supply division. Henderson urged that production be cut 45.5 per cent to 2,007,000 units in the 12 months that started August 1, compared to 3,670,000 units produced in the 12 months ended June 30 of this year.

College Flight Programs Turning Out Instructors

College Classes Provide Air Corps With Many Needed Flight Teachers

At the present time, the U. S. Army Air Corps is in the midst of stepping up its cadet training program from 12,000 to 30,000 annually. When that training schedule is worked out, predictions are that the pace will be accelerated to 50,000 maybe 60,000 annually.

With five cadets to an instructor that program will require hundreds of new pilots capable of teaching all the tricks of airplane flight. According to William H. Ice, local flight instructor, the army plans to secure these new instructors from the Civilian Pilot Training Program which today is teaching the first group of 1,600 young men the hard lessons of cross-country flying, navigation and the other necessities of successful air navigation.

According to Mr. Ice, there are many ambitious youths on the college campus, or who will enroll for the fall term soon, who within a year will be training Air Corps cadets now to take off and land bigger and faster planes than the "putt-putts" in which their own primary lessons started.

It is expected that the local college flight training classes of this fall and next year will be able to add a few instructors to the large supply that is needed by the army to carry on their planned expansion.

Sharon High To Be Here Friday

New Castle Prepares For 22nd Meeting Between Schools In 29 Year Span

Masters Returns To Squad On Monday, Sharon Will Send Fighting Team

New Castle high school football team resumed drills Monday afternoon preparing for the fifth game of the season here on Friday night when Sharon High will send its Tiger machine to Taggart stadium. The kickoff is slated for 8 o'clock. The game Friday night will mark the 22nd meeting of the two schools over a period of 29 years, the series having started back in 1912, and during this span of years New Castle has won 13 lost four and four games have been tied. Sharon defeated New Castle the last time in 1937 by a 7 to 0 count.

McCullough Supplies Records

In the 21 games that have been played New Castle has tallied 276 points to 68 for Sharon. The biggest score that New Castle ever ran up on a Sharon team was back in 1933, the locals winning 39 to 0. Sharon has only crossed the New Castle goal more than twice in any one game in one year that being in 1922 when New Castle won 34 to 18. These figures are all authentic, having been compiled all these years by Charles McCullough, a former New Castle High football and basketball star, and an ardent follower of New Castle High athletics since his high school days.

Sharon High will no doubt send a determined team here. They have dropped three games, but Paul Cuba who scouted the Tigers last Friday against Youngstown East says that Sharon put up a fine game and lost by a lone point 7 to 6. Sharon is a much improved team over their showing in the first two games of the year, according to Cuba.

Masters Back Out

John Masters the guard who had intended to give up football this season after playing in the first three games, reported for practice yesterday afternoon and announced that he had changed his mind about leaving school. He will be a welcomed addition to the "Red Hurricane" as the prep for the battle with Sharon High.

No serious injuries have cropped up in any of the four games played so far this season, which means that New Castle will be at full strength for the Sharon tussle. Tickets for the Sharon game went on sale this morning at the Sporting Goods store. Sections 5 and 6 that sold for 75 cents for the Farrell game have been dropped back to 55 cents under the new price structure that is being set up under the new Federal Revenue bill No. 41 that goes into effect on October 1. A story regarding the new prices will be found elsewhere on the sport page.

Robert Mills, New Castle High ticket manager, asks that the fans pick up their tickets at the Sporting Goods store by 5 o'clock on Friday night.

LADIES WILL BOWL

The ladies of the New Castle Field club will resume their duckpin bowling league for the 1941-42 season at the Neshaunock alleys on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, it was announced today.

Grid Prices Are Subject To Tax Starting Friday

New Castle High school football fans are going to have to start helping Uncle Sam pay for national defense—starting with the New Castle-Sharon game this coming Friday the fans will find a new price structure, due to the passage by House of H-5417 Federal Revenue Bill number 41.

Here is the new price list that the fans will find—Ten cent children tickets will remain the same price. Student tickets heretofore 25 cents will be 27 cents plus three cents tax or 30 cents. Adult general admission tickets heretofore 50 cents will be 50 cents plus five cents tax or 55 cents. Adult reserved tickets heretofore 75 cents will be 77 cents plus eight cents tax or 85 cents. The high school officials are charging the even prices to escape having hundreds of pennies to contend with at every game and to make it faster to make change at the ticket windows. The new revenue bill is effective as of October 1. Action to comply with the Federal Revenue bill was taken at a recent meeting of the Athletic Council.

It will not be long now until Russ Baxter battles Johnny Como, at 155, and Frankie Moran tackles Julius Wait, at 155, in two of the eight all-star scraps in the late Mike "Moxie" Di Muccio benefit in The Arena. Next Tuesday night's encounters will go far toward helping the widow of Mike or "Moxie," as he was known to fans, pay some of the bills which were contracted during his illness, death and funeral. All of the foregoing are accepting orders for tickets, and the Jefferson A. C. will hold the show for the late Di Muccio. So fans, put down next Tuesday night as Di Muccio night.

St. Josephs Has Fine Grid Team

Father Schirra Organizing Catholic Grade School Grid League

St. Joseph's grade school football team is hard at work every evening after school hours preparing to open the 1941 season, it was announced today by Rev. Peter M. Schirra, who is coaching the team. Last Saturday the St. Mary's team engaged the St. Mary's team in a practice game and looked impressive. The St. Joseph lineup consists of the following: Charles Scaglione, quarterback; Panella and Parone at the halves, and Eakin at fullback. The line has Cuba at center, Wallace and Stafford at the guards, Parone and Crowe at the tackles, and Ellsworth and Peluso at the ends. The Saints hope to schedule a game for this coming Saturday. Father Schirra is interesting himself in the organization of a Catholic grade school football league consisting of St. Mary's, St. Michael's and St. Joseph's.

Cosmic Man Nova Counts Stars At Louis' Feet

Lou Nova's Yoga and his much-touted cosmic punch went all for naught in the sixth round of his fight with Joe Louis as the champion floored him with a gruesome right hand punch, as pictured above. Referee Arthur Donovan signals Louis away after stopping the fight one second before the bell. A crowd of 50,000 paid approximately $600,000 to watch the fracas at New York's Polo grounds.

Three Local Teams Have Clean Slate

Three Lawrence county grid contingents sport unblemished records as the swanky swine hide caravan swings toward the quarter mark.

New Castle heads the list with four triumphs. Grove City, Butler, Farrell and Beaver Falls have fallen before the devastating attack of the "Canes." Ellwood City's crack machine follows with three victories. The Wolverines have subdued Union Township, Munhall and Rochester. Westminster, which opened Saturday by nudging Carnegie Tech, 19-13, completes the trio.

Shenango Township has a two out of three record. After trouncing Evans City, the East New Castle team lost a nerve-tangler to Sharpsville and last week ripped a tough Zelenople club. Bessemer finished second in its opener against Hubbard and hasn't seen action since. Union Township, faced with one of the boldest Class B. cards in the district, has been defeated by Ellwood City and Greenville.

Titans' Stock Soars

Westminster skyrocketed to the center of the district sports picture by edging Carnegie Tech, 19-13. The Titans bowled over a foe which ranked with the best in the land only a few seasons ago. "Dick" Newman, Westminster's one man blitz, left 6,000 fans dumbfounded by staging one of the greatest one man shows ever witnessed at Pitt stadium. Now that the cheering has subsided, the Washabaughmen are concentrating on next Saturday afternoon's assignment. The Titans face Slippery Rock away from home. The Rock's have placed an "X" after Newton's name. The Slippery Rock force will triple their efforts to halt the triple-threat athlete from Ellwood City.

Sharon Here Friday

We'll rested and in good shape after tacking up their fourth consecutive triumph, New Castle's "Canes" are drilling for their Friday tussle with Sharon high, at Taggart stadium. Despite the fact that the visitors have been spilled three times, Sharon may bob up with its customary good game against the locals.

Ellwood City's Class AA WPAL title contender, fresh from an impressive victory over Rochester, 12-7, is aiming for next Friday night's clash against Butler high, at Butler. The Wolverines loom as one of the smoothest clicking outfits in the league. The Croft-Gills machine sports a pair of classy ball toters in Carl Lardo and Earl Presto, plus an iron-padded line. Two local Class B. teams return to action, Bessemer battling Greenville, at Greenville on Friday night, and Union journeying to Grove City for a tiff with the Grovers, Saturday night.

Have Fine Reserves

Franklin high came up with a group of very capable reserves last week. This boy Falk, a backfield sub in particular scoring two touchdowns and playing a fine game. Williams, a colored speedster is being groomed for big things this year. Lutz, DeVideo and Jacobs are the other backfield men and played fine football against Sharpsville.

The East Siders are out this year to take the junior high championship and by the time they hit the big Washington high team late in October they will be in rare form. Held to a tie in every game last year, the East Siders seem destined to go places under the coaching of Cowmeadow, Wallace and Binder.

Floor Officials To Meet Thursday

An important meeting of the Lawrence county basketball officials will be held at the "Y" at 7:30 o'clock on Thursday evening, it was announced today by Austin Cowmeadow.

All young men interested in handling high school floor games in Lawrence county this season are asked to attend, also any who care to become football officials.

LEADING HITTERS

Leading hitters in the American League: Williams, Boston, 405; Travis, Washington, 359; DiMaggio, New York, 357; Heath, Cleveland, 340; Siebert, Philadelphia, 334.

STATE COLLEGE—Bucknell and Penn State have been football rivals since 1881. During all these 49 years the rivals have never played a tie game.

Louis Wins By Technical Kayo

Referee Arthur Donovan Stops Heavyweight Championship Bout To Save Nova

Fight Officially Over In Sixth Round, Louis Says Nova Never Hurt Him

By JACK MAHON (International News Service Staff Writer) NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Joe Louis is slipping—so is Mars!

Pal Joey proved that to 56,549 citizens in just 2 minutes 59 seconds of the sixth round of a scheduled fifteen round bout at the Polo Grounds here last night when he bludgeoned Yogi Lou Nova into a blood-stained trance for his 19th straight successful title defense.

Dead-Pan Joseph was as calm as an undertaker contemplating his day off as he sat in his dressing room after the shambles. Here's the way he summed up the "fight." "I saw him start fooling around in the fifth and dropping his hands and I knew I could nail him. I guess I hit him the hardest punch I ever threw. Yes, I'd say it was even harder than the one I hit old Paulino (Uzeudun).

Louis Never Hurt

Joe added that Lou had failed to hurt him at any time and said Nova was easier to fight than any of the others he'd fought this year "because he didn't move around so much." "I wasn't trying to hurry with him," he continued. "He was easy to hit but I missed plenty of opportunities."

That last crack was about the story of the fight—Louis missed opportunities—Nova just missed. It wasn't much of a fight in the first round both jabbing cautiously. Nova had whatever edge there was. In the second Louis suddenly caught the Yogi with a hard right and left and the dream man went into a dream. He was not exactly a sober dreamer either. For a minute it looked like Lou was going to do his famed "headstand," heretofore confined to the privacy of his dressing room but he managed to regain his balance—only to run into a couple of more hard jolts.

Most of the crowd which had paid a total of $583,771 to see the fight, thought sure Nova was going down but Lou surprised them all and Louis—by not only standing up there but also dishing it out. Lou fought back bravely despite some severe head punishment.

The third was a slow round, neither fighter opening up and the crowd started to hoot for action. There was more excitement in Louis' corner in most of these early rounds as the champs' handlers hollered for Referee Arthur Donovan to stop Nova's seconds from greasing the challenger's face.

Has Nova Wobbling

Louis staggered Nova repeatedly with rights and lefts to the head and had him wobbling all over the ring in the fourth but the "cosmic" punch expert simply would not go down. He weathered a real hurricane but went to his corner under his own steam.

In the fifth Nova startled the crowd by adopting some very queer tactics. Each time Louis stuck his left glove out, Nova simply pushed it back—like a child playing patty-cake.

"What is that?" hollered several of the ringsiders. "It's the 'jerk' punch," said an all-knowing soul. "Well, only a whack would know it" was the retort.

That's the kind of a round the fifth was—but, in it Louis saw just what he wanted—that the Yogi was dropping his hands.

About mid-way through the sixth, after Nova had driven Joe to the ropes with a hard right, the champion moved Nova over to the opposite side of the ring, near the challenger's own corner.

Flush On Chin

Then it came, harder and probably faster than any right-hand Joe Louis ever threw. It smashed dead center into Nova's chin, and the thud, like that of an ax introducing itself to a giant redwood, could be heard fully 50 feet from the ringside.

Nova went down, his head bouncing off the lower ropes, and lay quivering on the canvas like a broken puppet. His magnificently bronzed body looked pathetic as it lay there but somehow Lou managed to crawl back to his feet just as the count reached "ten."

Louis knew he had him and pounced on him, drilling machine gun rights and lefts into the drooping battered mask that once was the face of a mystic.

Nova wouldn't go down and somehow survived a journey of pain that carried him on baby legs all the way around the ring. No one knows how many punches squashed on Lou's mashed up face but a few of them ripped open a claret vesivius on the challenger's right eye-brow, just as he reached a neutral corner.

Referee Stops Fight

Referee Donovan looked across the ring, got the signal of agreement from Boxing Commissioner Dr. William A. Walker and stepped in to stop the fight.

Before he could get between the men, the bell sounded ending the sixth round but Arthur signalled to Joe's corner that he was stopping the fight and it was announced that he had done so just as the bell had ended the frame—making it a six-round technical knockout.

This was the end of a man of mystery.

And should be the end of all the mystery surrounding Joe Louis—champion with a capital C.

STICKING WITH "T"

BOSTON—Despite the fact that Frank Leahy is now piloting Notre Dame, Boston college will stick with the vaunted "T" formation which skyrocketed the "Eagles" to the top of the collegiate football world. The backfield of Connolly, Williams, Maznicki and Holovak seems to have adapted itself nicely to the intricate formation.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Some folks make mistakes . . . mistakes like taking merchandise and cash from stores or places of business where they work or visit. Some do this only once, some make a practice of it . . . but in most cases the people doing this get to thinking, and this thinking sort of gets them down. Several cases have been reported within the past few weeks, where sums of money have been returned with a short note explaining the matter but in all cases no signature has been attached. It's a good feeling to know that some people are leading a better life . . . but on the other hand there are some professional shop lifters in town. They delight in shopping a Super Market . . . in other words a self service store. Grocery stores are bothered by these persons day after day . . . in time they will all be caught, it might not happen for weeks, but in time they will be caught.

A record is a record . . . and those who hold them are proud . . . and we are proud of some of these records, especially school . . . like the following. Fifty years attending the same Sunday school . . . the McKinney Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church have nine members who have fifty or more years to their credit . . . they were all on hand last Sunday to welcome Percy MacNab, a former member and now of Los Angeles . . . here they are: Frank Shook, Carl Hanna, James S. Ball, A. E. Yoho, Walter Yoho, Dave Long, Tom Cubbison, Wyatt R. Campbell and Mont Magill . . . nice going boys and we hope that each and every one of you may live to make it 75. Good luck and good health to you all.

It sure would help matters for some several hundred citizens of this community if North Mercer street were paved . . . maybe this matter could be discussed in the next meeting of the budget committee . . . We feel that the residents of this street and those near this street are one hundred percent for the idea . . . If you are interested please write a note and tell of your feelings.

We hope that those who attend the football game this week will govern themselves like good sportsmen. A few seem to want to celebrate . . . and their celebrating doesn't always please their neighbors . . . so why not hold the celebrating until after the game?
